Letter from our Interim Executive Director, John Ewu

Dear Friends of FNVW,

I bring you greetings of peace from FNVW.

I am writing to share an important leadership update with you all. Following the recent transition in our organization, I have stepped into the role of Interim Executive Director, effective March 24, 2025.

As many of you know, I have been deeply engaged with FNVW in my role as Board Clerk, and I am honored to now serve in this capacity. My priority is to ensure stability, continuity, and progress as we move forward with key initiatives and our upcoming Annual Meeting on April 19th.

FNVW remains committed to its mission of promoting nonviolence and social justice, and I look forward to working with our staff, board, volunteers, and community partners to build upon our strong foundation. I invite you to stay engaged, share your thoughts, and continue supporting this vital work.

Thank you for being a part of the FNVW community. I look forward to leading with you in the spirit of peace, unity, and transformation.

Yours truly,

John Ewu, Ph.D.
Interim Executive Director
Friends for a NonViolent World (FNVW)
